“Café Jazz at the Hall ” featuring “DJANGOLOGIE”

“Djangologie evoke the authentic sound of Django Reinhardt and Stéphane Grappelli” (Desmond Carrington, BBC Radio 2)

Hot club inspired bands are far from a rarity on the U.K. jazz scene, but what marks Djangologie out as something special is the way they take the original spirit of the music and breathe new life into it. Noted for the way that they maintain the swinging spirit of the great Reinhardt-Grappelli ensembles but without trying to be a carbon copy, the music of Djangologie is firmly rooted in the Hot Club sound of the swing era. This can be found in the virtuosic performances of the time honoured 1930s hot club classics and a repertoire of exquisitely written, gypsy jazz originals. This is inspired rather than deferential homage.

All four members share a detailed understanding of the gypsy jazz tradition, coupled with a broader appreciation of the developments in jazz throughout the 20th century. It is with this that they are able to generate the sound and excitement of the Hot Club du France ensembles, whilst preserving their own unique identity. Played with virtuoso brio by four of the finest exponents of the style, the essential commitment to music rooted in the sound of Django Reinhardt remains absolutely at the heart of their approach.
