Thursday 25th May | 2.30pm – 4pm

Lincolnshire Film Archive

Since its foundation in 1986, the Lincolnshire Film Archive has been seeking out and conserving motion picture film showing life and work in the county, building up a collection of fascinating resource material available to all with an interest in local history.

Drawing on material from the Lincolnshire Film Archive, this afternoon's programme will include a selection of short farming films which the audience will be invited to discuss and try to identify, followed by some longer films that provide surprising reminders of how very different farming was some sixty or seventy years ago.

A presentation by Hazel Hale

LOCAL LANGUAGES AND LOCAL HISTORY: what do we learn from history about local language, dialect and speech?

What is the history of the English language in this part of Lincolnshire? One topic we will look at is the influence of the Vikings on language in this part of the country. There will be an opportunity to discuss and share dialect words and phrases. You do not need to be local to this area to enjoy this talk.

Hazel Hale has delivered many adult education courses on the History of the English Language, and was part of the Open University's Voices project, which looked at local languages and dialects.

£2.00 per person (no concessions)

Places are limited so it is advisable to book in advance. Please contact Cleethorpes Library on 01472 323650 or Waltham Library on 01472 323656.
